

Soil Health Innovations Conference Scholarship Application

If your application is approved by our committee, Western SARE will cover the registration cost for this two-day virtual conference where you will learn cutting edge research, practices, and policies for ensuring soil health.

| 1. | Please explain why you are interested in attending the Soil Health Innovations Conference |
|--------|-------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| 2. | What do you hope to learn from this conference? How will you apply what you learn? |
| 3. | Please chose one: a. If you are a farmer or rancher, please describe your type of operation (livestock, grain, vegetables, etc.) and the number of years you have been involved in ag production b. If you are a graduate student, please describe your research as it applies to sustainable agriculture c. If you are an agricultural professional, please describe the community of producers, processors, educators, etc. with whom you work and how long you have worked there. |
| 4. | Nould you be interested in learning more about presenting a poster, audio file, or video Y/N? |
| Name: | |
| Email: | |